

Where does the mechanistic model fail to match the target?

